

WHO?

Everyone can be a sexual citizen!

SEXUAL CITIZENS

WHAT?

Everyone has the right to say 'yes' or 'no' to sex.

WHERE & WHEN?

Consent may be influenced by social factors: sexual geographies, alcohol and other substances, peer groups, etc.

SEXUAL
GEOGRAPHIES
INFLUENCE
POWER
DYNAMICS IN A SPACE.

Culture around drinking and substance abuse promotes the idea that fun and sexual expression are closely related to drinking and other substances.

WHY?

- Change dialogue and culture surrounding sex and sexual assault
- Promote and develop healthier relationships
- Fulfill themselves and celebrate identity
- Many more!

HOW?

- Identify your sexual project(s)
 - What does sex mean to you? Why do you have or want to have sex? Why do you not have or want to have sex?
- Talk to your partner(s) about their sexual projects
- Respect each other's 'yes' or 'no.'
- Critically think about geographies of experience and power dynamics
 - Where have you had greater or lesser power? How do you use your power? How can you use your power to promote healthy relationships with your partners/friends/family?
- Make reflection on sexual projects and communication part of the norm
